NPRG's Principal Analyst to Serve on Panel of Leading Analysts

Firm's Executive Vice President to Judge Pipeline Magazine's "Innovation Awards"

Chicago, IL – New Paradigm Resources Group, Inc. (NPRG), among the communications industry's leading research and analysis firms, today announced that Craig M. Clausen, Executive Vice President & Principal Analyst, has been invited to serve on the panel judging will Pipeline Magazine's "Innovation Awards." The award recipients will be announced at the Management World Conference on May 21-24 in Dublin, Ireland.

Clausen's fellow panelists are among the leading analysts covering the telecommunications industry. The panels objective is to evaluate and determine which service providers and related companies have earned these prestigious awards. Given annually by Pipeline Magazine, the Innovation Awards acknowledge thought-leaders for advancements in technologies, products, deployments and more. "Reviewing the accomplishments of the nominated companies is fascinating," Clausen observed. "There are excellent minds in our industry pushing technological change forward. Deciding which of the nominated companies have set themselves apart from the others is always challenging."

Craig Clausen is Executive Vice President & Principal Analyst of New Paradigm Resources Group, Inc. (NPRG), one of the leading strategic research and analysis firm covering the communications industry. He directs the research and production of NPRG's extensive array of analytical products and information services that examine the range of emerging markets and service provider sectors comprising the industry. Prior to forming NPRG with the late Terry Barnich in 1993, Clausen served as the Senior Policy Advisor to the Chairman at the Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC).
